NOTICE TO ALL MEMBERS:

Nearly each month I am questioned as to spouses and significant others being welcome. It is the general consensus of the board that they are always welcome. Sometimes, if we are having a pure business meeting of importance, it shall be stated clearly above. And, then they are still welcome. Our announcement of intent of meeting is meant to preclude guests from being bored, not from being welcome.

Let us remember that the success of our referral base of our organization is predicated on the "greater the numbers, the better the opportunity for referrals". My wife, Patti, knows as many people as I do and she has excellent respect from her circle of influence. So, let's get the sig. others and spouses involved.

On occasion there will be changes based on specific needs or a venue which is believed to be more worth while or to remedy an unforeseen problem at a pre-determined meeting place. You are typically notified via email. Also, our web director, shall respond immediately with any changes. When in doubt, call someone. We must all be there for the group to work.
